

Forum: Lab Lounge

Topic: Truth or Rumor?

Subject: Re: Truth or Rumor?

Posted by: Lukesmom

Posted on: 2008/6/21 18:07:52

What sort of research did your SIL do? Obviously, it wasn't very in depth. Labs as a breed are not aggressive dogs. Couldn't be further from it. Having said that, chocolates do have a bad reputation, but not for being aggressive. Many people think they are harder to train and more hyper than blacks or yellows. This is not true if you can find a good breeder who knows what they're doing. If you get a poorly bred chocolate, that can be true, but that's true of any color and any breed of dog. Do your research and find a good, reputable breeder and you won't regret it!